BEYOND BELIEF

The Dallas News shows commendable editorial vigor by running a New York Times series on Alexander Solzhenitsyn's expose on Siberian labor camps during the Lenin-Stalin years.

Already a Nobel Prize winner for literature, Solzhenitsyn has written a book about the average day in the life of a Russian prisoner, "Cancer Ward" and "First Circle" prior to this new publication.

The series is a condensed view of secret documentation on a system of labor camps which may have absorbed six to ten million people prior to 1956. Solzhenitsyn himself served time from 1945 to the mid 1950s.

This latest book may well cost him his life, in Russia, though publication is in Paris, France, in several languages, including English.

Solzhenitsyn asserts that Stalin in 1953 may have been planning a pogrom on Soviet Jews so enormous that all of them would have been confined in Siberia out of fear for their lives in Russian villages and cities.

The device was actually employed by China's Chairman Mao in the late 1960s against dissident supporters, not Jews, by stirring up the hordes of teen-age "Red Guards".

No one knows how many millions died in consolidating Mao's hold on government.

Solzhenitsyn's struggle is with dictatorship. He was arrested while an Army officer in World War II for an inference against Stalin as that man with a moustache. It is not likely his ideology runs to communist.

The News should be congratulated for running this authentic view of our international political opposites. Solzhenitsyn confirms poor leadership is totalitarian, regardless of ideology, and tends to operate in the fear of darkness.

I hope a brave man like Solzhenitsyn lives out his years. But it is not likely. As his Paris publisher is quoted as saying: "He is courageous beyond belief."

EPA To Permit Use Of Cyanide For Predators

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) will shortly begin an experimental program permitting the use of the M-44 cyanide gun for predator control, according to Cong. W. R. Poage.

The program is planned to start by February 1 and will operate for at least a year, possibly two, within Texas and other states where livestock losses to predators have been severe.

The experimental program will permit farmers and ranchers who actually need the M-44 to use it, provided they agree to keep accurate records on predator and non-target animal kills by the cyanide gun and livestock losses to predators.

The program will be operative on private lands only, and the data received will be closely examined by EPA to determine if actual registration of the cyanide gun would be warranted, Poage said.

Pond Creek Group Seeks Easements

Land right easements for Pond Creek Watershed project will be sought after January 15, according to Edwin Bigbee, who has been retained by the watershed authority as the agent to continue negotiations with property owners.

Bigbee, of Cameron, points out that Pond Creek is a major tributary to the Brazos River and traverses a drainage area of approximately 146,000 acres in both Milam and Falls counties.

Extensive damage from disastrous flooding, which is usually an annual occurrence, has occurred as often as four or five times in years of above normal rainfall.

These floods inundate more than 15,313 acres of potentially high productive land along the reaches of Pond and Little Pond creeks. Damage to other property such as fences, equipment, and livestock is high, as is damage to roads and bridges washed away.

Proposed construction includes 22 floodwater retaining structures, and the straightening of some 31.6 miles of stream channel on the two branches of the creek. These improvements will directly benefit 285 or more farms in the flood plains and indirectly benefit over 600 landowners and operators.

Area Roundup

Vandals Topple 'The Colonel'

ROCKDALE

"The Colonel" has fallen. After almost 70 years of overlooking the country side around the Bushdale Cemetery, the tall marble statue of Col. Herman Henniger now lies broken at the base of its pedestal. The statue, a landmark as well as a conversation piece for generations was tumbled down by vandals on Christmas night, a malicious act that has prompted Sheriff Carl Black to offer a $50 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the vandals. Constable Spud Caywood of Rockdale has added a $25 reward to that offer.

Boys Burned In Gas Explosion

GEORGETOWN

Two boys were critically burned in Georgetown when a barbecue grill they put in their garage ignited gasoline fumes and caused the garage to explode, destroying it and damaging the house. The sons of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Simmons Jr., 12 year old Berry suffered 80 percent of body burns and 14 year old Carl was burned on an estimated 50 percent of his body. The boys were transported to Breckenridge Hospital in a DPS helicopter, where their condition was described as stable.

Man Killed In Fall To River

WACO

Freezing temperatures and steady drizzle caused hazardous driving conditions in several Texas counties and one man was reported killed when he fell 30 feet onto the rocky banks of the Brazos River underneath the bridge on Steinbeck Bend Road following a three-car wreck. The man had been involved in a two-car accident on the bridge when a third car crashed into the wreckage. Police were unable to determine whether the man jumped over or was pushed by wreckage onto the river bottom.

Weather Forces Band Home Early

BELTON

The Belton High School Marching 100 Band was forced to change its plans on the way home from the annual Rose Bowl Parade. A 4-1/2 inch snow in Las Vegas where the band stayed Tuesday night delayed the start home and cancelled two side trips planned for the return home. The band was scheduled to visit Hoover Dam and the Grand Canyon Wednesday en route back to Texas but because of heavy snow and ice, the route had to be changed.

Harrelson Bond Refused

HEARNE

Charles V. Harrelson was escorted back to his jail cell in Brownsville after District Judge Darrell Hester of Cameron County refused to accept surety bond of $22,500 from a Lubbock bail bondsman, Harrelson, of Houston, has been in jail since he was arrested in Atlanta, Ga. on Nov. 20, 1968 by Texas Rangers. Harrelson, appealing his conviction and 15-year sentence for killing Sam De-gelia Jr. of Hearne in 1968, had begun a series of legal moves that could put him back on the streets in a matter of months.

Woman Is First Hog Buyer

MCGREGOR

Men no longer are hogging the hog buying business. Miss Gladys Bohne of McGregor has joined the Roegenle Provision Co. as a full-time hog buyer. She is believed to be the first woman hog buyer in the nation. Asked about training for becoming a hog buyer she replied simply, "You live it." She has been working for a decade with her father in the hog business. But her new employment is the first time she has been listed separately as a hog buyer.

Livestock Show Drive Now Underway

The Milam County Junior Livestock Show scheduled for January 12th is close at hand and promises to be a good one. The fund drive for the show got underway over the holidays and will continue until show day.

Prior to the drive several substantial donations were already made. The Cameron Livestock Auction and Milam Grain donated a butcher calf for the drawing. Cameron Swine Producers donated a butcher hog to be auctioned off on show day. Milam County Young Farmers donated the ribbons and trophies, and the Milam County Farm Bureau voted to contribute $100.

With these donations the drive was well underway prior to the 31st and good response in the Cameron drive brought the total to about $1,000 on the first day.

The Rockdale drive headed by Billy Hall and Loyd Lamere is reported to be doing well even with a slow start.

Three judges will be used at the County Show: Dr. Bill Thomas, swine specialist from Texas A&M University, will judge the hogs. Benton Moore, who was on the Sam Houston State University judging team, will judge the beef cattle and sheep. Benton has a feed store at Groesbeck and ranches. Richard Dale of Temple will judge the dairy cattle. He has coached several winning 4-H Dairy teams in Bell County.

SPDD Opens Office Here

Services for Problem Drinking Drivers, an alcohol abuse program of Bell County Mental Health and Mental Retardation Center, is now maintaining regular office hours in Cameron.

The third floor of the Milam County Courthouse has been made available for the staff members of SPDD. Mrs. Dorothy McCelvey, Alcohol Information Consultant, will be in the office from 2-4 p.m. each Tuesday.

Anyone desiring information or help in the field of alcohol abuse may contact Mrs. McCelvey in the Cameron office or telephone the Temple office, collect, 778-4841.

Mrs. McCelvey said programs are available to church, civic and school groups upon request.

Cameron School Hours

Daylight Saving Time, which went into effect Sunday, will not affect Cameron school hours. Supt. D. R. Dodson said. Hours will be 8:30 to 3:45 unless changed by the school board at its January 14 meeting.

Comet Watching Tips

If you're among the millions planning to spend some time in the winter darkness watching the comet Kohoutek here are some suggestions and comments from Donald K. Yeomans of Computer Science Corporation in Silver Springs, Md.; and Arthur Withmore of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

According to the two experts, the best viewing requires a clear sky, an unobstructed horizon, and no interference from artificial lighting. The comet is now visible after sunset. The comet will appear higher in the sky at sunset with each passing day.

The naked eye is best for viewing when Kohoutek is at its brightest. COMET WATCHING

January 13 - Comet still very impressive in west southwest sky after evening twilight. January 10 through January 20 best for photography as comet appears higher above horizon after twilight and moon is waning.

January 17 - Comet should be easily visible to naked eye above western horizon after twilight.

January 21 - Comet tail continues to shrink as comet grows less bright. Still should be a naked-eye object during and after evening twilight.

January 25 - Comet may remain visible to naked eye in west after evening twilight.

January 29 - Tail continues to shorten while head grows dim. Comet may still be a naked-eye object after twilight. Binoculars would be useful.

February 6 - Binoculars or small telescope may be useful to see comet in western dark, evening sky.

February 14 - Binoculars or small telescope required.

February 17 - Comet only visible through astronomical equipment.

The comet Kohoutek, discovered by Charles Kohoutek, a Czech astronomer, originally appeared visible in the morning twilight. On Dec. 28, the comet passed its closest path to the sun, and changed to evening object.

Scientists say the comet is one of the two brightest comets to pass near the earth. The other is Halley, due to make its return appearance in 1985. Kohoutek will not pass near the earth for another 19,000 years.

Bergeron Views Alcoa Highlights

Unparalleled metal demand, near-record production, major construction and restored employment were 1973 highlights at Aluminum Company of America's biggest smelter -- Rockdale Works.

What's more, the ingredients persist for another good year although officials have a close eye peeled on an energy crisis that could play havoc with local operations.

"Never has aluminum been in greater demand for so many applications," said Fred P. Bergeron, operations manager, in a year-end statement. "While the qualities that make it particularly attractive today have always existed, there is a renewed, almost universal recognition that aluminum can reduce weight, improve efficiency, lower costs and be recycled again and again at a fraction of its initial energy requirement. This highlights aluminum's future, though demand is far outstripping supply."

Bergeron said the industry's most compelling restraint against meeting the growing demand has been its inability, under price controls, to attain adequate return on its investment in plants and equipment.

IN SHORT SUPPLY

"Only with the ability to generate needed profits and to attract outside capital can any industry satisfy the need for its products," he said. "Aluminum will remain in relatively short supply for several years because of growing recognition of the metals' problem-solving capabilities, and because no large additions to U. S. smelting and fabricating capacities are planned in the near future."

Despite starting the year with only five of the plant's eight potlines in operation, Bergeron said Rockdale Works' 1973 metal production was "commendable." The local smelter churned out some 266,000 tons of primary aluminum over the last 12 months, only 19,000 shy of its annual rated capacity.

INVENTORIES SHRINK

Since suffering an industry-wide recession in the early 1970's, shipments have been outstanding while inventories shrunk from 118 million pounds in January, 1972, to an all-time low of 23 million a couple of months ago. Impressive shipments were chalked up in 1973 in spite of railroad car shortages that kept the plant's transportation department scrambling.

Atomized powder production was off slightly in 1973, falling about six million pounds short of last year's 113 million pounds output. Redraw rod operations, used exclusively to supply Alcoa Conductor Products Company's Marshall (Tex.) Works, more than took up the metal slack with a record production of 131,000 tons of rod in 1973. Rated capacity of the Properzi unit or rod mill is 114,000 tons a year.

EMPLOYMENT

Since suffering energy-related production cutbacks last winter, employment rebounded with potline re-starts until the plant was declared fully staffed in December with more than 1,700 Alcoa on the payroll. It matches a high-water mark set in September, 1970, when Rockdale Works' new seventh and eighth potlines started making metal. It's also in sharp contrast to just 12 months ago when the limited five-line operation necessitated only 1,400 employees.

Improved conditions in 1973 provided a favorable economic impact on the Central Texas community. Company wages and salaries climbed to nearly $24 million while purchases of goods and services amounted to some $20 million. Alcoa remained the area's largest taxpayer, shelling out approximately $800,000 in city, school, county and state taxes. The 21-year old Rockdale Works pays over $15,000 a week in taxes.

CONSTRUCTION

Bergeron sees another busy year in construction and modernization activities, citing projects totaling in excess of $30 million. Topping the list is the new multimillion dollar sheet ingot facility and carbon plant modernization and expansion. The new casting equipment, which will triple the plant's existing sheet ingot capacity, has the capability of forming seven 40,000 pound, jumbo ingots simultaneously. Present equipment can produce six 15,000 pounders. Engineering began late in 1973 on the updated carbon rodding and baking facility, one of the world's largest carbon anode manufacturing installations. Construction is scheduled to begin this spring, with completion set for 1976.

Construction also starts this spring on a pair of pollution-control projects which were authorized and engineered in 1973.

Beyond Mythology...

Your Herald has hammered for a decade on things in this area amidst a lot of very practical, if sometime short-sighted people.

But regardless of myopia, we can all understand the fact that sales tax reflects sales or business conditions in this community.

The figures for third quarter city tax refunds (1% of actual retail sales) in 1973 over the third quarter in 1972 are 18 percent more. All that is not inflation. Some of it comes from more payroll, some of it comes from better agriculture.

All of it comes from a modern viewpoint in a more modern area in a modern era.

Actual figures for the quarters are: 3rd quarter, 1973: $19,739.50; 3rd quarter, 1972: $16,809.37.

We are hardly done with modernization or left standing on some kind of laurels, but we are on the way. And it is not the way of mythology.

Beyond The Superficial...

If you observe closely you will notice most vocal critics superficially incisive about weaknesses in others that in actuality are theirs. Empathy seems to run along party lines. They read into other actions what they know, and they alone, know of themselves.

This is a result of a comparison and the fact that people are finally beginning to think for themselves. The various collectives in this country haven't done the job; they are also rethinking their roles.

Thinking outside institutions you are developed and conditioned in will be a new experience for most everyone. We are all institutionalized.

But it is happening, because reliance on the group response has put us squarely in front of a mirror with cracks running through it. And those cracks are in the mirror and not in people. We are no better nor worse than previous generations. We face unprecedented developments.

The older institutions have first faced these problems and the record is generally known. As in any watershed era, we again go it alone, remolding our outer institutional shells as we go.

If there is any challenge in 1974, it is anticipating more of the unanticipatable, like the Comet Kohoutek, which charges through space to fuller view of an astounded human race. Kohoutek is not to return for 19,000 more years, a span of time which makes 5,000 years of history leading to our present dilemma seem, indeed, small, and quite beyond the superficial.

Russian Writer Publishes Book About Solzhenitsyn

By John Morrison

LONDON
Reuter -- For the first time ever, a close friend of disgraced Russian novelist Alexander Solzhenitsyn has published an account of the writer's career.

The book, "10 Years After Ivan Denisovich," is by Zhores Medvedev, the dissident Soviet Geneticist who came to England last January for a year's research and found himself in exile when the Soviet authorities removed his passport.

Medvedev has known Solzhenitsyn since 1964, the period when the author was beginning to slip into disfavor from his fragile position as the literary star of Kremlin leader Nikita Khrushchev's anti-Stalin campaign of 1961-62.

His book is neither an attempt at literary criticism, nor an intimate picture of Solzhenitsyn's personal life. Instead it is a study of a decade of literary and political infighting during which the novelist himself has changed little but the swing of the political weathervanes in Moscow has made him a literary outcast.

Medvedev chronicles the author's fall from grace since the bombshell appearance in November 1962 of "One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich," Solzhenitsyn's story based on his experiences in one of Stalin's labor camps.

He tells the story of how Khrushchev's open attack on Stalin and his supporters at the 1961 communist party congress encouraged Solzhenitsyn to submit his explosive manuscript to the liberal magazine Novy Mir, edited by Alexander Tvardovsky, who was later to prove the novelist's staunchest defender.

"The typescript had an unusual appearance," Medvedev writes. "It was typed in single spacing, with almost no margins, and covered both sides of the paper -- either the author was saving on paper or he felt that the less paper he used the more easily his writings could be hidden."

Tvardovsky and other literary figures were thrilled by Solzhenitsyn's manuscript. The unknown author's work was read to Khrushchev during the Kremlin leaders' summer holiday by the Black Seas and after two meetings of the all-powerful Politburo (then called the Presidium) Novy was given permission to print the story.

"Ivan Denisovich" -- the grim story of one peasant prisoner's day in a very ordinary labor camp showed that the curtain was being drawn open on Stalin's crimes, to allow not only oblique hints about "mistakes" but a direct look at the reality.

Solzhenitsyn was admitted to the writers' union at record speed and Pravda hailed him as "a writer gifted with rare talent."

Medvedev chronicles how the wind soon changed under pressure from ideological conservatives. Solzhenitsyn failed to win the 1964 Lenin prize because of a false report that he was an unrehabilitated criminal who had surrendered to the Germans in World War II.

Japan Turning Toward Latin American Supplies

By Muneaki Morita

TOKYO
Reuter -- As world-wide anxiety mounts over the availability of natural resources, Japan is turning towards Latin America and the Caribbean in the search for stable, long-term supplies.

The Asian industrial giant is looking for energy-producing fuel, minerals, agricultural and sea products.

There is now growing interest in the Caribbean and northern Andes regions.

Japan already has well-developed economic ties with such major nations as Mexico, Peru, Brazil and Chile, but has not had such close connections with the rest of Latin America and the Caribbean.

Over the past year, however, that situation has been gradually changing at the same time that Japan seeks to develop a global foreign policy no longer dominated by its relations with the United States or immediate Asian neighbors.

Another factor prompting Japan to establish closer relations with central and South America is the presence of nearly 800,000 Japanese there as a result of emigration.

There has been a steady flow of economy missions from the Caribbean and South America in the past year looking for Japanese investments as well as economic and technical cooperation.

In response to these approaches, Japan last month sent a major mission to seven countries -- the Dominican Republic, Haiti, Jamaica, Guyana, Trinidad and Tobago and Colombia. Its task was to promote friendly relations and look into ways to strengthen economic ties.

The mission of 17 business and industrial leaders was the largest of four groups that have gone to the region since 1962.

Officials said Japan hoped to negotiate for long-term supply of natural resources in return for investment and cooperation in the development and processing of resources.

It could, for instance, make progress on the prospect of Japanese aid and cooperation in a Colombian project to develop power and irrigation from the Cauca River.

The Tokyo government is studying a Colombian request for a 60 million dollar contribution to the 100 million dollar project.

Japan now imports sugar chiefly from Cuba, but could diversify its sources by importing from the Dominican Republic, Jamaica, Guyana, Trinidad and Tobago and Colombia.

Venezuela is a possible source of bauxite and aluminum.

The Japanese are interested in the future of natural gas deposits in Trinidad and Tobago as well as Guyana, and in the prospects for manufacturing paper pulp throughout the Caribbean and South American regions.

Japanese firms are studying the possibility of investment in a proposed Brazilian steel plant. A feasibility study has been made on the proposed Itaipu plant in the northeastern part of San Luis. Steel would be produced from ore shipped in from mines at Carajas on the upper Amazon.

The Nippon Steel Corporation said its survey confirmed huge deposits of high-content ore -- estimated at 180,000 million tons -- at Carajas.

Getting some of this ore could lessen Japan's dependence on Australian supplies which now account for some 44 per cent of the country's needs, but are becoming more expensive.

Ancient Chinese rainmaking consisted of building a rain dragon and carrying it in procession. If that didn't work, they ripped it to pieces.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Right To Travel

"The right to travel is a part of the 'liberty' of which the citizen cannot be deprived without due process of law. Movement across frontiers (is) a part of our heritage. Freedom of movement is basic in our scheme of values."

The words are those of the United States Supreme Court. And, during most of our nation's life, there were no governmental restrictions on going abroad. All you had to do was buy a ticket, board the ship, and sail away.

Nowadays, of course, you do need a passport. But even today, the government's exit requirements are subject to careful scrutiny by the courts.

In one case, a member of a radical organization was denied a passport on the ground that he might make contact with radicals overseas. However, there was no evidence that he was an active member or that the organization had any illegal plans of which he was aware.

The Supreme Court ruled that the government could not constitutionally prevent him from going abroad. Such a ban, said the Court, could block him from even visiting a foreign relative or doing research in a foreign library.

Furthermore, the government has even less right to keep a citizen from coming back into the country than to keep him from leaving.

"It is inherent in the concept of citizenship," said a federal court, "that the citizen, when absent from the country to which he owes allegiance, has a right again to set foot on its soil."

On the other hand, lesser limitations on the right to travel have been upheld. In another case, the government granted a passport with "area restrictions" -- listing several countries as out-of-bounds.

This procedure was lawful, a court ruled later, because it fell within the presidential power to "conduct foreign affairs." The government could reasonably foresee, said the court, that American visitors in certain trouble spots might complicate our foreign policy.

"Even in a neighborhood community," the court added, "every man's right to roam is restricted."

Sharp-Tracy-Fr'ship

By Mrs. Leroy Guillote

The holidays are over, and little Joe Wayne Hanke and Lorraine Stephens may have been too young to understand all about Santa, but they really enjoyed watching the pretty blinking lights.

Dan Darus was home for the holidays, to be with his family, after about two months in the Galveston Hospital.

Ed Sinn, age 33, passed away after a long illness. He was the grandson of Dutch Edwards, and lived all his life in the Tracy area.

It seemed quieter than most holidays, since Mr. and Mrs. Bill Roesler have moved to Waco, we missed their children and family's spending the holidays in Tracy.

Guests of Mrs. Rome Shelton were her son, Melvin Shelton and grandson, Philip Shelton.

Mrs. Minnie Lee Collier's children were all home for the holidays; Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Collier and children of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Walker and family of Dallas, and Jim Collier of Austin.

Sunday visitors of the W. H. Walkers were Prince Shelton and Mrs. Felix Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Pruitt's children visited them, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Holder and children and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Pruitt and children.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Shelton had Christmas eve supper with Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Daskocil and children and the Dennis Shelton family gathered.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Walker were invited to Christmas eve supper with their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Walker Jr.

Curtis Rhodes of Temple spent Sunday with his mom, Mrs. Alice Rhodes.

Mr. Dewey Pope of Jacksonville, Florida spent several days with his dad, Mr. J. W. Pope, Mr. and Mrs. Zone Bales of Temple, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bales and Craig of Belton and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Guillote enjoyed a chili supper followed by domino games Sunday night at Mrs. Popes.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Schwartz ate Christmas dinner in Rockdale with the Ruben Seelke, then drove to Waco and spent a few days with their son and family, the James Schwartz's.

Mrs. Mable Charles drove to Houston Christmas Day to be with Nelda and David, and their two children.

Mrs. Wavy Charles spent the holidays in Austin with Odell and his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Pope spent five days in Austin, coming back Wednesday. Their granddaughter, Melissa Pope came home with them for a visit, her parents Mr. and Mrs. John Dewey Pope visited in Sharp Saturday and Melissa returned home with them.

Mrs. Blanch Mitchum of Arizona spent several days in Sharp. Mrs. Mitchum spent Wednesday night with the Popes and left Thursday for Angleton and a visit with the James Andrews.

Miss Cynthia Harbuz of Memphis, Tennessee and Mrs. E. L. Cousins, children Sandy and Danny spent the holidays with their folks, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Harbuz at Norris.

Miss Linda Coffman and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Coffman's daughter of Austin were with their folks, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Coffman during the holidays.

Mrs. Malitta Galler of Houston, and son Charles Galler of Springs spent the holiday with Mrs. Agnes Rinn. They were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Rinn in Rockdale. Delle Brackenbush of Rockdale spent Monday at Agnes.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyles and Clara visited in Wallor with the Jimmy Ferguson family.

The Tracy Duncan Club hosted two holiday parties, and enjoyed a tea given Tuesday by Mrs. Joe Brown.

Our son and his wife, Pat and Harry of Austin spent their four day holiday with us. Christmas this year was the first Christmas in fourteen years that a son was not overseas, and for so many of those year, three of our sons each spent their Christmas in or around Viet Nam.

So, for us, the holidays were very special, all our children, in the good old U.S.A.

Heath's Troubleshooter Is Facing New Challenges

By John Morrison

LONDON -- Prime Minister Edward Heath's troubleshooter William Whitelaw is facing a new challenge after his success in coaxing Northern Ireland's warring Protestants and Catholics into sharing power together.

Whitelaw returned to London at the beginning of this month with his reputation as a conciliator greatly enhanced by his 20-month spell as secretary of state for Northern Ireland.

His new job, secretary for employment, gives the tall, genial landowner the job of damping down an approaching confrontation with Britain's trade unions.

With Britain's miners operating an overtime ban which is cutting coal production by 30-40 per cent, and train engineers threatening similar action, optimists in the governing Conservative Party are hoping Whitelaw's blend of charm, patience and sincerity will work a second miracle of conciliation.

But his freedom of maneuver in his new job is likely to be severely limited, and many observers doubt whether Whitelaw's personal qualities will be enough to produce a radical improvement in government-trade union relations.

Whitelaw is a bulky, square-jawed man with large, sad eyes which project an image of sincerity. He comes from a classically conservative background.

Born into a wealthy landowning family, he distinguished himself at Cambridge University mainly by his golfing ability and captained the team.

When Japan's golfing Prime Minister Takeo Tanaka visited Britain recently, it was Whitelaw who partnered him in a game at a club near London.

He entered Parliament on his third attempt in 1955, and quickly built up a close relationship with Heath.

During the Conservatives period in opposition (1964-70) he was a party whip (floor manager) in Parliament, a key job which Heath himself once filled.

Despite the difference in their backgrounds -- Heath's father was a small-time builder -- the two men are close colleagues.

When Heath sent him to Northern Ireland in March 1972 the prospects looked bleak.

The Protestants were enraged by Heath's suspension of Stormont, the provincial Parliament which had they had dominated for half a century.

And the Catholics had still not forgiven London for "Bloody Sunday" -- the clash with British troops in Londonderry in which 13 civilians were killed.

But despite early mistakes in his first few months in office, and new waves of violence, Whitelaw's quiet brand of diplomacy, disguising a steely determination to get his own way, gained the confidence of most political groupings in the province.

He listened hard to all points of view and drew up a plan for a new governing structure to replace Stormont.

Elections in the summer of 1973 produced a new assembly, and by December Whitelaw managed to shepherd the moderate Protestants, the main Catholic party and the non-sectarian alliance party into sharing power in a coalition.

Whitelaw left northern Ireland to a round of applause, even from his opponents. Heath had been anxious to bring him back to London for some time.

FB Sets Convention

A number of Texans will be in Atlantic City, N.J., Jan. 13-17 attending the 55th annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation, according to J. T. (Red) Woodson, president of the Texas Farm Bureau.

Woodson will head a slate of 11 official voting delegates from Texas, the largest representation the Lone Star State has ever had at the national meeting. TFB qualified for an additional voting delegate this year by virtue of its increase in membership to 152,380 families.

GRIZZLY GROUP

The vast Yellowstone-Teton Wilderness complex is home to probably the largest single group of grizzly bears left in the contiguous United States, an estimated 250 animals, according to the National Geographic Society's new book "Wilderness U.S.A."

Reflectors Protect Lapp Reindeer

By Colin Narbrough

FINLAND

Reuter -- Lapp herdsmen here have started to fit their reindeer with reflectors in an attempt to cut down growing stock losses through road accidents.

Reindeer in five grazing districts near here -- 62 miles north of the Arctic Circle -- are being fitted with traffic reflectors attached by a leather thong around their necks. The cost per animal is about one dollar.

Here in Europe's far north, daylight is down to a brief midday twilight in the winter months. The reverse -- the midnight sun -- comes only in the summer months.

In the long dark winter the half-domesticated reindeer -- that traditionally draw Santa Claus's sleigh -- are being run down in thousands and causing serious economic loss to the none-too-wealthy Lapp owners.

The managing director of the Reindeer Grazers Association, Veikko Huttu-Hiltunen, said the reflector experiment is being carried out initially in the worst area for road-deaths -- along the main north-south artery, Highway 4.

Last winter some Lapps test-painted the horns of their animals with fluorescent paint. None of the painted reindeer died in road accidents, but the experiment was abandoned as the animals shed their horns once a year and this would call for annual repainting, he said.

An estimated 100,000 reflectors would be needed to outfit the total reindeer population of Finnish Lapland if the current experiment produces favorable results. But an agriculture and forestry ministry spokesman, Heikki Suominen, said he was pessimistic about reflectors being able to stop reindeer being hit by trains -- another major hazard for the wandering herds.

"Several hundred head are killed by trains every year. This is more by far than are killed by predators," he noted.

Wolves, bear and wolverine are still found in the vast wastelands of Lapland, where the gentle reindeer roam in search of the Arctic lichens on which they feed.

Ceremony Unites Knight - Wieser

A double ring ceremony united Marilyn Charm Wieser and Lt. James Barron Knight at 7 p.m. December 27 in the United Church of Christ, Ben Arnold. The Rev. C. E. Wierth officiated before an altar enhanced with baskets of gladioli and candelabras. Grace Smith and Max McClaren presented wedding music. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne B. Wieser of Cameron, attended Temple Junior College and is a graduate of Mary Harden Baylor College. Lt. Knight, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Knight of Rockdale, attended Central Texas College, School of Aviation, at Killeen and is a graduate of Mary Harden Baylor College.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal A-line gown of ivory satin with a yoke and high neck of hand clipped chantilly lace. Lace enhanced the sissor pleat at the front of the long skirt and a detachable tubular train was also outlined in lace.

She wore a cathedral English net mantilla outlined in lace and carried a colonial bouquet of deep red roses with pearls.

The bride's attendants were Mrs. Houston Brown of Temple, Miss Linda Richardson of Cameron, and Sarah Knight of College Station. They wore long red-wine velvet gowns with ivory satin collar and cuff and carried nosegays of pink silk rosebuds. Patricia Wieser, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. She wore a long gown of ivory patterned after the bride's dress.

Richard Grossman of Killeen was bestman and groomsmen were Mike Curry of Austin, Ronnie Fisher of Rockdale and Glenn Glaser of Cameron. Ushers were Charles West of Rosebud and Alan Pelzel of Temple.

A reception was held in the church recreation hall. Mrs. Stanley Kirk registered guests. Others in the houseparty were: Mrs. Alvin Hefft, Mrs. H. J. Folshinsky, Jr., Ann Richardson, Mrs. Leonard Pelzel of Burlington, Mrs. Alan Pelzel and Mrs. Jerry Weaver of Temple, Mrs. Hugo Aigner, Mrs. Bill Collins and Miss Kathy Collins of Ben Arnold, Mrs. Marcia Jones of Rockdale, Mrs. W. D. Boecher of Bryan and Miss Jenny Lee Corley of Grand Prairie.

Following a wedding trip to Mexico the couple will make their home in Columbus, Mississippi.

Smithey - Smith Recite Vows

Miss Linda Diane Smith and Gary Ervin Smithey were married at 11 a.m. December 29 in the Memorial Drive United Methodist Church of Houston. The Rev. Eugene Cragg and the Rev. E. J. Davis officiated at the morning ceremony in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Elmer O. Smith, Jr., Houston (formerly of Cameron) and the granddaughter of Mrs. Elmer O. Smith, Sr., Alexandria, Virginia and Mr. and Mrs. Fred D. Willis, Sherman, Texas. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Grady W. Smithey, Sr. of Duncanville.

The ceremony was read before an altar enhanced with a single massive arrangement of white gladioli, stock, carnations and lemon leaves. Family pews were marked with lemon leaves and pastel carnations.

The bride wore a white wool matte jersey gown of empire design fashioned by a cowl neckline and long tapered sleeves with a softly flowing A-line skirt which fell into a chapel length train. A single medallion of seed pearls marked the high waist line. A hood of matching fabric, attached at the neckline, formed soft folds falling into a full length train. She carried a nosegay of gardenias, orange blossoms, and miniature carnations along with an Irish lace handkerchief belonging to her grandmother Willis.

Mrs. David Laich, Houston, the bride's sister, was matron of honor. She wore a pastel plaid taffeta floor-length dress and carried a nosegay of mixed pastel flowers of the colors in her dress.

Bill Uncapher of Galveston served the groom as bestman. Ushers were Kermit Smith and Kendall Smith, brothers of the bride.

Grady W. Smithey, III and Shannon Smithey of Arlington Virginia, nephew and niece of the groom, were ring bearer and flower girl.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride's parents hosted a luncheon in the State Room of the Red Carpet Inn. Tables were laid in white with runners of English Ivy, fern and pastel carnations.

The bride and groom's table was centered with white gladioli, stock, carnations and lemon leaves with runners of ivy, fern and pastel carnations. Wedding cake, champagne and punch were served from separate round tables laid in pleated white net skirts swagged with ivy and pastel carnations.

The bride's cousin, Miss Alice Willis and Miss Treasa Noe, Sherman, and Miss Donna Adkins, assisted. Organ music was played.

Following a wedding trip to Mexico the couple will make their home in Tyler where the groom is a tennis pro with the Tyler Swim and Racquet Club.

MRS. GARY ERVIN SMITHEY

Yoe JV Wins Freshmen Lose

In junior varsity action, the Yoemen pulled out a 63-53 victory.

Yoe JV led throughout the game, and went in at half-time with a 32-26 lead. Going into the third quarter the Badgers pulled within 3 points at 46-43, but were unable to crush the Yoe effort.

Obra Henry led the Yoemen in scoring with 23 points. David Kornegay had 12, Dennis Hollas 11, Joe Smith-erman 10, James Walker 5, and Dennis Butler 2.

The Badgers were led by Pickett with 24 points and Milligan and Bear with 9 each.

After the game Coach Nelson Huffman commented on the defensive effort of Henry, Hollas, Kornegay and Smith-erman.

Freshmen

In the freshmen game the Badgers overpowered Coach Jon Forsythe's cagers by a 52-34 score.

Kelley was high point man for the Yoemen with 14. Heitman had 6, Wilkinson 6, Komar 4, Delony 2, Pair 1 and McCullen 1.

Cheek was leading scorer for Lampasas with 12 and Tomlinson had 11.

Houston Boat Show In Progress

The most popular family attraction of early spring in the Southwest, the Houston International Boat, Sport and Travel Show which last year pulled almost 300,000 people into Astrohall, will have all its famed glitter and excitement this year plus some additional attractions of information and education.

Want to know how to get more miles to the gallon from your bass boat or cruiser? The dealer exhibiting all those sleek new beauties might normally be giving propeller pitch and boat trim for speed. This year he'll be focusing upon minimal prop slippage, tricks of a slicker and less resistant hull, and specific recommendations on engine size and throttle settings for maximum efficiency.

The U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, always a top source of information at the show on safety equipment and regulations, will this year be passing on fuel saving tips as well as providing some cautionary tips on the carrying and/or storage of extra fuel. If you have a question on such things, experts from virtually every major manufacturer and dealership in the huge Houston-area marketplace will be accessible in one spot for nine days and nights.

For those who've never attended Houston's big show it's a spectacle which has to be seen to be believed. Astrohall is the world's largest exhibit center with more than 14 air-conditioned acres of powerboats, sailboats, motors, trailers, campers, hunting equipment, water skis, marine accessories, electronic equipment, general sports equipment, and colorful exhibits of resort developments, travel exhibits, informational exhibits relating to marine insurance and financing, marine fuels, and displays of top local sportsmen's clubs and organizations.

The huge show's old reliable attractions will be there bigger and better. These include the famed "Fishorama" offering fishing for live rainbow trout with all proceeds going to charity. The Miss Mermaid Beauty Pageant will bring some of the most beautiful girls in America into colorful competition with preliminary judging Monday, January 7 at 9:00 P.M. in the West Wing of Astrohall and final judging and crowning of the Queen Thursday, January 10 at 9:00

PM in the South Wing.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Departments remarkable indoor zoo of live native birds, mammals, reptiles and fish will be on display in the East Wing.

There will be miniature boat racing and the mystery person contest in the North Lobby. Radio Station KUNZ will be on hand with its Mobile Unit and "Gold" boat in the West Wing.

A special exhibit of bass boats will be in the West wing, and the Houston Boat Racing Association and Houston Gulf Coast Marathon Association will display some of the hottest and best known local racing, drag, and ski rigs in the North Lobby.

On stage entertainment will be the remarkable Rhodes Kids, one of America's most talented musical groups which, like the boat show, get bigger and better every year.

They perform four times daily on Saturday and Sunday, January 5-6, twice nightly through the week, four times Saturday, January 12, and give three performances Sunday, January 13.

The whole show, from boats to beauties, is sponsored by the Boating Trade Association of Metropolitan Houston, and admission prices remain at $1.50 for adults, 50¢ for children under 12. Tickets are available at the Astrohall and all five Foley's ticket centers.

Show hours are noon until 11:00 PM on Saturdays, noon to 9:00 PM Sunday, January 6, and noon to 6:00 PM Sunday, January 13. Weekdays hours are 5:00 to 10:00 PM.

Lampasas Badgers Win 1st Game

The Lampasas Badgers won their first basketball game of the season Thursday night against Burnett, 57-52.

The victory leaves the Badgers with a 1-12 record but the victory could give the Badgers a boost as they enter district play.

Lampasas led throughout the game, and had a 51-41 lead going into the 4th quarter. Burnett pulled within 5 points of the Badgers, but were unable to capture the victory.

Carroll led the Badgers in scoring with 15 points, Porter had 14, Davis 6, Taylor 6, Bell 6, and Bridges 2.

For Burnett Houy led with 19 and Thompson and Shipley were both in the double figures with 16 and 12.

In the Badgers last outing before the Burnett game, they were defeated by Gatesville, 51-45. The action came during the Copperas Cove Tournament.

During play with Burnett, the Lampasas JV also came out with a 46-40 victory, but lost the freshmen game by a 69-17 score.

Toll Free Number Gets IRS

You can now telephone the Internal Revenue Service toll free for tax information. The number is 800-252-1000 for residents in the southern half of Texas.

Announcing the new service, IRS District Director Richard J. Stakem, Jr. said "it means that a person can now pick up a telephone and call us for information without having to pay a long distance charge."

Previously, free telephone help was available only to residents in cities with IRS offices. And, taxpayers living in Austin, El Paso, Houston and San Antonio will continue to call their local offices for tax assistance.

The new telephone system will be in operation during regular office hours, 7:45 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., on weekdays.

Yoemen Down Badgers 70-34

Opening night was a success for the Cameron as they defeated the Lampasas Badgers 70-34 in district 12-AAA basketball action Friday night in Cameron.

The win moved the Yoemen to a 15-5 season record and a 1-0 district record.

The Badgers seemed to be no match for the taller Yoemen. They trailed at all times, except for a quick 6-2 take-off in opening seconds of play.

The Badgers trailed 10-6 at the end of the 1st quarter of play, 29-13 at half-time, 48-21 at the end of 3rd quarter action, and continued to trail during the 4th quarter as the Yoe reserves took over.

Almost every Yoemen lit

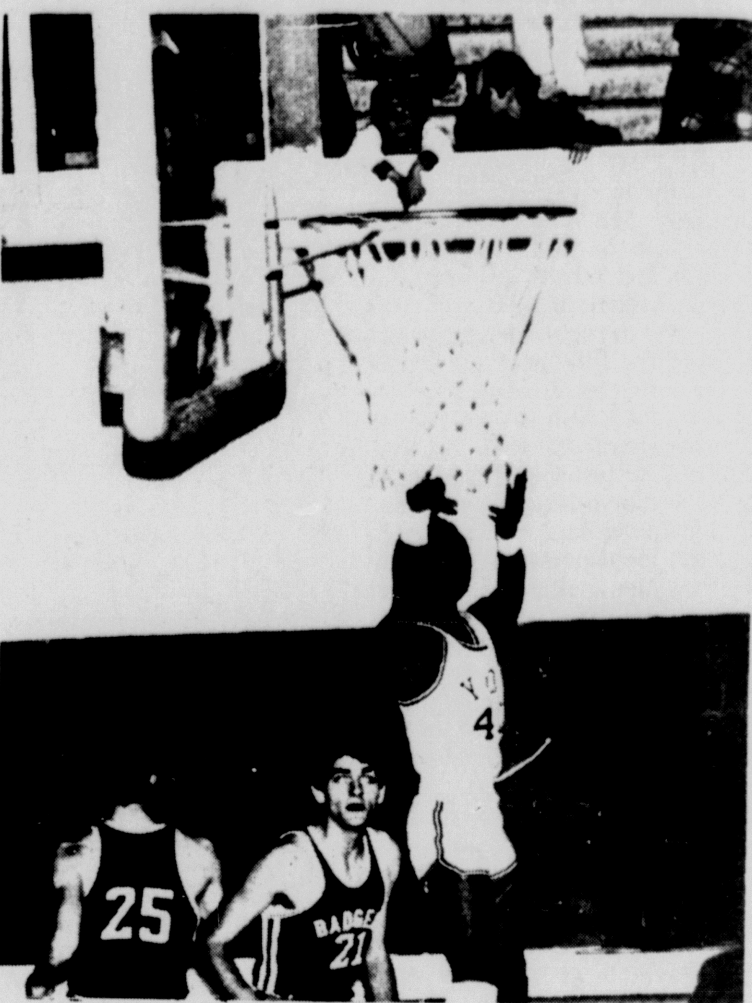

the scoreboard during the district opener, and Bennett who retired during the second half, lit it the most with 11 points.

Other Yoe players scoring were Harry Brooks 10, Kenneth Scott 8, Gary Hornung 8, John Barron 7, Mike White 6, David Thomas 6, Troy Daniels 6, and Randy Sapp 2.

Leading the Lampasas effort were Davis with 9 points and Bell and Bridges each with 6.

In the rebounding department, Jafus White led the Yoemen with 8, Brooks grabbed 7 and Bennett pulled down 5.

After the game Coach Max Graham gave credit to Randy Sapp, Harry Brooks and Kenneth Scott for an outstanding defensive effort.

Austin American List Two Yoemen On All-Centex

Recently Yoe LB Paul Vaculin and running back George Whiteside were named to the Austin American's All-Centex team.

Along with Whiteside on offense 3 players from Rockdale were named, 3 from Belton, 2 from Gatesville, and 1 each from Georgetown and Columbus.

Along with Vaculin on the defensive squad, 3 players from Taylor were named, 3 from Belton, 2 from Georgetown, and 1 each from La Grange and Gonzales.

The Player of the Year award went to Johnny Gann of Gatesville, and the Coach of the Year award went to James Williams of Belton. The Punter of the Year was awarded to Larry Young of Rockdale.

Area Players On Super Centex

When the Super Centex team was released by the Austin American Statesman area cities found the names of 8 area football players on the list.

The Super Centex team is chosen from A, AA, AAA, and AAAA teams in the Central Texas area. Along with the players, a Coach of Year award is given and a Most Valuable Player award.

The coach receiving the award this year was Ken Gray of Llano, and the player was Alfred Jackson of Caldwell.

The 8 area players named to the team are as follows:

TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN

by Vern Sanford

Measuring Your Catch

Texas' new minimum-length law on black bass is 10 inches.

You can waste a lot of good fishing time while measuring your catch, unless you have a tape handy.

Quickest and surest method we have found is to glue to the outside of the tackle box (top or front), a 10-inch or longer piece of tape pilfered from the wife's sewing basket. Being cloth-like it will stick indefinitely if you'll use airplane glue, Elmer's, or some adhesive that is not affected by water or the heat of the sun.

Next best bet is to saw a wooden yardstick to the desired length and glue it on the top or side of the tackle box. Since most tackle boxes today are made of plastic, and wood is much thicker than cloth, it may be advisable to bolt or brad a metallic ruler to the case unless you use an exceptionally strong adhesive. Its disadvantage is rust.

Cheapest way, of course, is to simply mark off 10 inches on your tackle box or on the gurnel of your boat, where you can scan it quickly. Only difficulty is that you can't tell how much your catch exceeded ten inches.

Fertilize the Flower Bed

Next time you clean those fish forget the disposal and the garbage pail—and bury the remains in the garden or flower bed. It's an old Indian custom for fertilizing.

This way you can also forget about the odor that hangs around until the next garbage pickup.

Proposed Regulations To Govern Fuel Allocations

Cameron, Texas, Herald,
January 7, 1974 Page 7

Museum Displays Aircraft

The House Committee on Agriculture, meeting in an informal session with William E. Simon, Deputy Secretary of the Treasury and Administrator of the Federal Energy Administration, was assured that the agricultural segment of the economy will be the fuel necessary to produce the nation's requirements for food and fiber.

Proposed revised regulations governing allocations of petroleum products, said Simon, place agriculture in a "category 2" status with energy producers themselves (oil, gas, coal and hydroelectric power), public transit systems, and space heating in hospitals ranking first. He declared this "Category 2" rating for agriculture would guarantee farmers and direct agriculture-related fuel users an allocation of 110 percent of the amount they consumed in the base period of November 1972 to November 1973.

Additionally, Simon indicated that a 3 percent reserve will be set aside to take care of agricultural and other users with special hardship conditions.

Committee Chairman W. R. (Bob) Poage, D-Tex. had asked Simon to discuss the energy crisis with the Committee members as a result of complaints reaching the congressmen from farmers and ranchers in widespread parts of the country who have been running out of fuel.

Pleas for help began pouring into Washington shortly after the mandatory middle distillate petroleum program, which includes diesel and fuel oils, went into effect on November 1. At that time oil companies had been told to allocate diesel on the basis of the amount of this fuel used by a farmer or rancher in November of last year.

Poage pointed out that heavy rains in the base period had prevented most farmers throughout much of the South and Southwest from purchasing any diesel, or very little, so they had to seek special relief through a procedure that could take weeks.

With the Office of Oil and Gas (OOG) in the Interior Department shorthanded in personnel to administer the program, and allocation forms requesting fuel still to be printed and circulated on a wide scale, the distribution channels appeared to be rapidly clogging, farm tractors and other equipment grinding to a halt.

Chairman Poage then called the then newly appointed Administrator, Eli T. Reich of the Office of Petroleum Allocation (OPA) and Duke Ligon, Director of the OOG, before the Committee. The upshot was a change in regulations designed to expedite delivery of fuel to farmers. Agriculture was given a co-equal top priority rating, along with mass transit and energy producers themselves (oil, gas and coal), and language giving this the force of law was published.

LONDON

Reuter -- "No enemy plane will fly over the Reich (German) territory."

These were the words of Field Marshal Hermann Goering, Hitler's air chief.

With grim irony they are reproduced in the Royal Air Force Museum at Hendon, North London, where some of the British bombers which wreaked devastation in countless raids over Germany during World War II are on show.

The phrase appears on the port side of a restored bomber, a Lancaster named "S for Sugar." It became known as the "one that always came back" and graffiti on the black fuselage record 128 raids over Germany.

Opposite it stands what is thought to be the last of 11,461 Vickers Wellington bombers. The museum is careful in its claim. Officials say there might still be one somewhere in an Irish bog.

The museum contains two types of Spitfire, the fighter plane which played the main role in destroying German Luftwaffe planes during the "Battle of Britain."

But, of all the planes owned by the museum, the story of a Halifax bomber, also code-named "S for Sugar," is one of the most colorful. At 8:30 p.m. on April 27, 1942, 11 Halifax bombers took off from Kinloss, Scotland, to raid the 45,000-ton German battleship Tirpitz, lying in Norway's Trondheim Fjord, with mines. "Sugar" was hit by flak and crash landed on the frozen surface of Lake Hoklingen, Norway.

The crew scrambled clear and struggled over the mountains to neutral Sweden. The badly-burning Halifax melted the ice beneath it and sank into 90 feet of water.

There it remained until last September when it was raised to the surface by a team of salvage experts. At a cost of $12,500 it was transported across the North Sea by tank landing craft to Harwich and thus to the museum workshop at Hemlow, Bedfordshire, for restoration expected to take several years.

EXTINCTION NEAR

Guanacos, relatives of the camel, llama, alpaca, and vicuna, once roamed the entire Andes range in South America, National Geographic says. Men eager for fleecy guanaco hides have hunted the animals nearly to extinction.

Extension Specialist Writes Chapter For Yearbook

COLLEGE STATION

Families concerned with using their incomes to better advantage will be interested in the just-released Yearbook of Agriculture.

"Handbook for the Home" is the title of the U.S. Department of Agriculture publication, which is planned to assist consumers in getting more for their dollars, according to Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz.

A home management specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service authored one of the 78 chapters in the 388-page book. She is Mrs. Doris M. Myers, whose chapter is captioned "Are You A Sharp Consumer? Try This Check List."

"Nothing pleases the consumer more than the realization that a purchase has proved worthwhile," Mrs. Myers said. However, she added, the tremendous assortment of products and services at the marketplace is causing perplexing problems for buyers.

The Texas A&M University System specialist emphasized that the decision-making capability to use money for goods and services that provide maximum satisfaction is of prime importance.

"Good decision-making begins with a clear appraisal of the needs and wants of your family," Mrs. Myers said.

She suggested that families ask themselves three basic questions before making a decision: What is important to us now and in the future? Do we have specific facts about the product or services we are considering? Four photographs of families who are studying various consumer purchases. Cornell Green, visual aids specialist with the Extension Service in the Department of Agricultural Communications, was the photographer.

Each member of Congress has limited copies of the book for constituents. The USDA has no copies for public distribution.

Paper money is made of a very special kind of paper. It has fine red and blue threads woven into it. You can observe these fine threads under a magnifying glass. These fine threads appear blurred in counterfeit money.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN the accent on after-Christ-
Holiday gift buying and mas specials are sure to add up to heavy activity in electrical appliance sales.

Consumers should take the time to be informed about the characteristics and performance expectations of the particular appliance for which they are shopping, especially at this time when we all are being asked to conserve on electricity energy.
The Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division has received several complaints recently, expressing dissatisfaction with advertising claims or inadequate warranties for some appliances, as well as some charges of "bait-and-switch" practices.

"Bait-and-switch" is the name of the game of advertising a very special "bargain," then telling consumers who respond to the ad that the advertised product has been "sold out," or that it just isn't as good as another line in stock. The customer is talked into purchasing a something else, which costs more.
That practice is outlawed under the 1973 Texas Deceptive Practices-Consumer Protection Act.
A legitimate merchandising outlet advertising a low-priced special usually will warn the public that the sale is for a limited time, or that only a specific number of the items are available -- or, give a "rain check" to those who come after the special stock has been depleted.
Another type of complaint relates to interest rates charged when large appliances, such as washers, dryers and dishwashers, have been financed on a time payment plan.
In most cases, we find that the interest rates charged were legal rates, but the consumers involved did not realize what they were when they signed the time payment contracts.

Make certain that you do know what difference you will be expected to pay, because retailers are authorized by law to charge more for "paying on time" than for cash purchases. Compare the difference between store financing and banking institution financing, which may vary from place to place. You might be able to effect a real saving.
Above all, do not sign any financing paper in which any spaces have been left blank. Make certain all disclosure details of original price, total price, amount of interest charges, number and amount of payments and so on have been written into the contract, and that you understand them.

When shopping for any appliance, find out about the special features of the name, model and make. Ask what it can do, and what it can't do. Make certain instructions for operation and maintenance are in the package. Determine what is needed, in the way of voltage, space, and clearance, for installation. Turn it on and test it for power and noise at the store.

Ordinary candles are usually a mixture of paraffin (60%), stearic acid (35%) and beeswax (5%).

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the nurses and Dr. Ray at Newton Memorial Hospital for care given to me and those who sent flowers and cards during my confinement in the hospital and made visits.

Mrs. Mary Pontruff

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to all who sent flowers, food, cards, visits and calls, during the loss of our sister, aunt, great aunt, and great great aunt. Special thanks to Geen

Alcoa Declares Stock Split

Aluminum Company of America's board of directors has voted a three-for-two split of Alcoa common stock, to be distributed on February 1, 1974, to shareholders of record at the close of business on December 31, 1973.

Alcoa, the world's leading aluminum producer, operates three plants in Texas and makes more metal here than in any other state. The company is building a fourth plant -- a smelter -- near Palestine.

Board chairman and former Rockdale Works manager John D. Harper said the action was taken to attain a wider distribution of Alcoa's common stock, which presently totals 22 million outstanding shares.

At the same time, the board declared a dividend on the new stock of 33-1/3 cents per share, payable March 10, 1974, to shareholders of record at the close of February 15, 1974, business. The previous dividend rate, adjusted for the split, would represent 32-1/3 cents per share.

The board also declared a dividend of 93-3/4 cents per share on Alcoa's $3.75 cumulative preferred stock, payable April 1, 1974, to shareholders of record at the close of business on March 15, 1974.
